Whatever may be said of President GRANT in other respects, it cannot be said of him that he is vacillating in disposition and inconsistent in action. He is certainly a man of fixed and adopts a line of policy, he is determined to go ahead, though all the world denounced his course. His administration opened with the exhibition of many peculiarities which did not receive the endorsement of a large proportion of his party, and many influential Republicans were not slow to express their disapprobation; but the President held to his course. The extravagance, recklessness, incompetency and often dishonesty of many Federal officials became so notorious that the President was urged to cause their removal, but he had nominated cluding letters and telegrams from them for the places and would not reconsider his action. His reconstruction policy proved a failure almost before it was tried, and though the President was urged to try some other plan he refused, and with a degree of firmness which is sellom manifested is understood that if the "sinews of by any other animal save a governwar" are furnished the road will be ment mule, he held to his course until he ran the Republican party on the rock of public opinion and wrecked a rivers was received. How to Build the Independence Road.

The proposition is that the people of this county shall take $300,000 worth of stock, and the road will be built. Now, how can this be done? For each person to come forward and subscribe is not practicable. It brings the burden only on the liberal ones, and that in amounts unequal. Now we suggest the following plan: Let enough persons whose aggregate wealth is $10,000,000, subscribe three per cent. each. In this way the amount on each one will be small. The proportion equal in its cost to the be selected on the east side of the benefit accruing to each person. The river, near the distillery. assessed property this year is over $12,000,000. THE PLANTING OF THE APPLE TREE. Come let us plant the apple tree;
Cleave the tough green sward with the spade;
Wide let its hollow bed be made;
There gently lay the roots, and there
Sift the dark mould with kindly care,
And press it o'er them tenderly,
As round the sleeping infant's feet
We softly fold the cradle sheet;
So plant the apple tree. Come let us plant the apple tree;

What plant we in this apple tree? Buds, which the breath of Summer days Shall lengthen into leafy sprays; Boughs where the thrush, with crimso breast,

Shall haunt, and sing, and hide her nest;
We plant, upon the sunny lea,
A shadow for the noontide hour.
A shelter from the sunny shower,
When we plant the apple tree.

What plant we in this apple tree?
Sweets for a hundred flowery springs
To load the May wind's restless wings,
When, from the orchard row, he pours
Its fragrance through our open doors;
A world of blossoms for the bee,
Flowers for the sick girl's slient room,
For the glad infant springs of bloom,
We plant with the apple tree.

What plant we in this apple tree? Fruits that shall swell in sunny June, And redden in the August noon,
And drop, when gentle airs come by.
That fan the blue September sky,
While children come, with cries of glee,
And seek them where the fragrant grass Betrays their bed to those who pass, At the foot of the apple tree. And when, above this apple tre

The Winter stars are quivering bright The winter stars are quivering bright,
The winds go howling through the night.
Glrls, whose young eyes o'erflow with mirtl
Shall peel its fruit by cottage hearth,
And guests in prouder homes shall see,
Heaped with the grape of Cintra's vine,
And golden orange of the Line,
The fruit of the apple tree. The fruitage of this apple tree

The fruitage of this apple tree
Winds and our flag of stripe and star
Shall bear to coasts that lie afar,
Where men shall wonder at the view,
And ask in what fair groves they grew;
And sojourners beyond the sea
Shall think of childhood's careless day,
And long, long hours of Summer play,
In the shade of the apple tree.

Each year shall give this apple tree
A broader flush of roseate bloom,
A deeper maze of verdurous gloom.
And loosen, when the frost-clouds lower,
The crisp brown leaves in thicker shower.
The years shall come and pass, but we
Shall hear no longer, where we lie,
The Summer's songs, the Autumn's sigh,
In the boughs of the apple tree.

And time shall waste this apple tree.

O, when its aged branches throw
Thin shadows on the ground below,
Shall fraud and force and iron will
Oppress the weak and helpless still?
What shall the tasks of mercy be,
Amid the toils, the strifes, the tears
Of those who live when length of years
Is wasting this apple tree?

"Who planted this old apple tree?"
The children of that distant day
Thus to some aged man shall say;
And, gazing on its mossy stem.
The gray-haired man shall answer them:
"A poet of the land was he,
Born in the rude but good old times; Tis said he made some quaint old rhymes On planting the apple tree." — William Cullen Bryant.

ENDORSEMENT OF THE HON. J. ROSS BROWNE.

SAN FRANCISCO, November 28, 1874.

WM. H. MARTIN, General Agent California Immigrant Union—Dear Sir:—I have just visited the "Centinela and Sausal Redondo" Rancho, and driven over the land described in your advertisement. With all my experience in the southern part of California, I have seen nothing to surpass this tract in fertility of soil, beauty of location, and advantage of easy access and salubrity of climate. For purposes of colonization, I know of no large body of land so near a growing commercial centre, in California or elsewhere, to equal it. No part of it is unavailable for farms, orchards or homesteads. It can be subdivided into lots ranging from five acres to several hundred acres and icinity, and the pipes of the Los Angeles O. W. Steads. It can be subdivided into lots ranging from five acres to several hundred acres and every acre of it can be made productive. Water is abundant and convenient. The land is subject to easy irrigation; and I can vouch for the fact that it will produce anything that flourishes in Los Angeles or Santa Barbara counties. It is my confident opinion that the value of shares in this magnificent tract will be quadrupled within two years—such is the extraordinary influx of immigration to the vicinity of Los Angeles at the present time. Wishing you success in your undertaking, I am, very truly yours, J. Ross Browne.
